INTRODUCTION AND OVERVIEW

Syria. Iraq. Honduras. South Sudan. Congo. Palestine/Israel. Ciudad Juárez. Ferguson. Washington, D.C. Violence and war are all too prominent worldwide as people clash in struggles often marked by ideas about human difference linked to terms such as race, gender, class, sexuality, ethnicity, nationality, religion, sect, caste, tribe, people, and culture. This course attempts to understand contemporary violence, wars, and other conflicts through such ideas—human-made ideas—about difference. The course also attempts the opposite: to understand various kinds of socially-constructed difference through the lens of violence, wars, and conflict.

The course will address related issues including nationalism, the state, identity, imperialism, colonialism, genocide, structural violence, and liberation struggles. We will devote special attention to understanding what Donald Trump's election says about the workings of at least race, gender, class, sexuality, nationality, and religion in the United States. In addition to some of the examples above, the course will devote attention to contexts including China, South Africa, Rwanda, Mauritius, Trinidad and Tobago, Brazil, Germany, and Europe.

Throughout the course, we will consider how the phenomena under discussion have shaped our own lives, as well as how anthropology has played a role in each. Ultimately, the course hopes to offer tools to understand various forms of socially constructed difference, to analyze the role socially constructed difference plays in violence and wars, and to use these understandings to advance conflict resolution and efforts to build a more just world.

Structurally, the class will be a discussion-based seminar. As such, and as a graduate-level course, the class assumes active and thoughtful participation from every seminar participant. The class will emphasize close attention to writing as a craft and as an essential part of producing anthropological and other knowledge. I encourage you to use the seminar as an opportunity to explore social justice work related to course topics outside the classroom.

Respect, Inclusivity, and Freedom of Expression and Dissent

The classroom will always be a space for passionate, engaged discussion. Everyone will be encouraged to express views freely and to dissent with others—especially me—while recognizing the responsibility to respect others' right to express themselves freely.

In keeping with commitments to social justice and a public anthropology, the Department of Anthropology and I are committed to ensuring inclusion, diversity, and equality of opportunity for all, regardless of race/ethnicity, sex, gender, sexuality, class, age, religion, nationality, (dis)ability, and intellectual or political viewpoint, among others dimensions of difference. If you have any questions, concerns, or suggestions, please feel free to speak to me or to the Center for Diversity and Inclusion (202-885-3651).<sup>1</sup>

Course Feedback

Beginning with the syllabus and throughout the semester, participants will have opportunities to shape the direction of the class, choose subjects of discussion, and improve the course design through regular feedback. In addition to responding to specific questions I will pose, this feedback will be an opportunity to ask any general questions about the class, anthropology, and things that are confusing in the course. You can also use it to give me feedback of any kind about my teaching, ways I could improve the class, and general frustrations or inspiration.

I also always welcome emailed questions (call with anything urgent) as well as anonymous questions or comments placed in my mailbox on the ground floor of the Department of Anthropology's Hamilton Building.

Participation and Attendance

Careful and thoughtful reading, active participation in discussions, and the completion of all assignments are the most important elements of this course. To prepare for seminar discussions, please see the "Suggestions for Academic Reading" below. I expect advance notice for any classes you will miss, just as I will inform you if I must miss any classes.

Technology Rule

Because this course stresses active participation in class discussions and respect for all course participants, computers, mobile phones, and other personal electronic devices may never be used in the classroom. If there is a good reason to make an exception to this rule (e.g., a learning or disability issue requires such use), please come speak to me. Although I do not encourage the use of e-readers, they may be used in class only if they are used to examine course readings and for no other purposes. If an e-reader or other device is used for other purposes in the classroom, it will no longer be permitted in the classroom. Thanks for your understanding and assistance.

Email and Communication

Throughout the semester, I will send emails (via Blackboard or directly to your email) to supplement and clarify class discussions and occasionally to modify readings or other assignments (if necessary). I consider these emails to be an important part of the course and required reading. This means that everyone must ensure you will receive such emails and that you read them in a timely manner. Note, however, that I will not change a mandatory reading or assignment without more than 48 hours' notice.

If you send me an email and do not get a response within a few days, I apologize in advance. My delay is likely because I've gotten overwhelmed by the large quantity of email faculty receive daily. If the issue is pressing, please call me or talk to me in class or office hours. If the issue is urgent, please call me on my mobile phone.

Academic Integrity

By registering for this class and at the university, you have acknowledged your awareness of the Academic Integrity Code (<http://www.american.edu/academics/integrity/code.cfm> or see the "Student Handbook and Planner"). You are responsible for familiarizing yourself and complying with all its standards of academic conduct, including those related to plagiarism. I take plagiarism and academic dishonesty very seriously, and I am required to report cases to the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, whose policy is to fail students for the course. Please read the university's Academic Integrity Code closely and ask me if you have any questions.<sup>2</sup>

Special Note: In addition to plagiarizing others, it is possible to plagiarize oneself when using your own previously written material without proper citation. To avoid self-plagiarism and related academic dishonesty, you must cite any and all material that you have written for any purposes other than this class. If you want to use material written for another class in this course, you must ask for advance permission to do so.

My Responsibilities

I pledge to the best of my ability to make this as enriching and exciting an academic experience as possible for everyone; to come prepared to lead engaging class sessions; to create a safe and nurturing academic environment in the classroom that encourages the free exchange of ideas; to remain open to—and encourage—all dissent, critique, suggestions about the class, and other feedback; to adapt the course as appropriate in response to feedback; to meet personally with course participants during my office hours and at other times by appointment or otherwise to discuss any aspect of the course; to read carefully and return all written assignments as quickly as possible; and to be fair in my evaluation and grading.

ASSIGNMENTS

Weekly Critical Reactions

Each week (except when another assignment is due), please write a minimum 1-paragraph “critical reaction” in response to the assigned readings for the week. The critical reaction must be posted to our Blackboard Discussion Board by Tuesday at 8pm. There will be one thread for the entire class per week (labeled by date of the class), so submit your reaction as a “reply” to the last post you see on each week’s thread.

After posting, please read as many of the other critical reactions as possible (though please post your reaction before you read others’ work so you don’t inadvertently constrain your thoughts and writing). Please reply to at least one other critical reaction so we can start our discussion before gathering in person.

Your reaction should offer thoughtful reflection about each of the week’s readings. While summarizing the main argument(s) of each reading will be helpful, go beyond this to offer your own original thoughts about the texts. These thoughts could be a major question or query raised by the readings. They could be what Brett Williams calls a “keeper”: “A keeper is like a gift. It is a concept the author introduces to you, a question she or he poses... a problem so movingly invoked you want to fix it.”<sup>3</sup> The reaction can also include your critiques, challenges, inspirations, uncertainties, connections, comparisons, concerns, applications, and implications, among other types of original thoughts. The reactions should help you work through and organize your thinking about the readings and clarify the issues you want to discuss each week. In other words, they will help ensure you are prepared to be an active participant in discussions.

(I will not grade the reactions, but thoughtful, focused papers will indicate effort and engagement in the course. Failing to submit more than 20 percent of the total number of critical reactions will affect your participation grade.)

Class Facilitation

At least once during the semester, you and another seminar participant will be asked to serve as facilitators for part of a day's discussion. The ultimate aim is to stimulate discussion with one provocative question or argument that addresses the key substance of the week's readings and what you and your partner think we should be discussing. To that end, you should 1) briefly summarize the day's readings; 2) discuss what you see as the significance of the readings to our class and the wider world; and 3) most importantly, offer one especially provocative and important question raised by the text(s) to provide a springboard for discussion and critical thinking. It may help to have backup questions to probe and prompt deeper discussion, but do not read an unfocused list of questions. You will have a maximum of ten minutes to present material before posing your central question. Generally, groups will facilitate discussion mid-way through each class period.

Think deeply and carefully about how best to engage the class. Be deliberate and creative in your pedagogical choices and don't be afraid to take risks. You may use visuals and other supplementary materials to help your facilitation. Do not, however, offer a perfunctory powerpoint, simply tell us what you liked and didn't like, or substitute a long video clip for a thoughtful presentation. Remember, too, that your goal is to lead and facilitate an energetic conversation, not to dominate the conversation. I highly recommend practicing your presentation. If you have any concerns or questions, please come to office hours to discuss the assignment.

Semester-Long Investigative Project

The major assignment for this course is a semester-long project. Although this can be a traditional research paper, I encourage you to make the paper an investigative or experientially-based project that will seek to understand some significant phenomenon related to topics addressed in the course. Investigative projects may involve original research in or around DC and may involve ethnography, interviewing, participant observation, archival research, surveys, and other research methodologies. The projects should result in a final paper of around 15-20 pages and an op-ed, blog post, or other opinion piece of 500-800 words based on the findings of your investigation.

Experiential projects may involve an internship or service learning activity with an organization working on issues relevant to the seminar and out of which a final project could be arranged. Those interested in this option should speak to me as soon as possible to make necessary arrangements. Projects involving internships or service learning will require a final portfolio of work completed and a minimum 10-page paper. I am also open to discussing other kinds of projects, but writing is a basic requirement of the course.

As the assignments below should indicate, the projects are intended to be ones that you explore throughout the semester, not just in the last weeks before the final paper is due. Most of all, you are encouraged to select a project that will inspire you and sustain your interest and attention for at least the course of the semester. I also strongly encourage you to design your project so that it makes some impact in the world beyond fulfilling a course requirement. This could mean writing your paper as a publishable article, writing a short article as part of the final assignment, producing a project aimed at assisting the work of a specific organization, among other possibilities. I am open to receiving final projects that are not entirely written, although the format of your project must be approved in consultation with me and outlined in your project proposal (see below).

Assignments Summarized

- 1) Weekly critical reaction papers except when another assignment is due.
- 2) Group facilitation, date to be determined.
- 3) Informal meeting with me, due by the end of office hours, February 2.
- 4) Project proposal of approximately 1-2 double-spaced pages describing your semester-long research project. The proposal should include a) the project's focus and aim, b) a central question you will attempt to answer, c) methodologies employed to answer the question, d) any possible ethical concerns involved in the project, and e) expected outcomes, due February 15.
- 5) 1-2 page preliminary bibliography (including works from class), due March 22.
- 6) Draft final paper outline, due April 5.
- 5) Draft final paper and opinion piece summary/abstract, due April 26.
- 6) Final project presentation on April 26 or May 3.
- 7) Final project paper (approx. 15-20 pp.) and opinion piece (500-800 words maximum), due in my mailbox on the ground floor of the Hamilton Building by 7:00 pm, May 4.

CLASS SCHEDULE

All assignments and readings are due on the date indicated. All article-length required readings and other required materials will be available on Blackboard, on the internet, or in class. All full-length books should be available in the campus bookstore, on 2-hour reserve in the library, and at inexpensive prices when purchased (often used) online. Unless otherwise noted, readings will be in Blackboard's "Course Reserves."

If you cannot find a reading on Blackboard or if a link does not work, please: 1) Look again on Blackboard (perhaps looking for the title or an editor's name); 2) use your research skills briefly to try to find the text elsewhere and send it to the class if you find it; and 3) let me know immediately if you still cannot find the reading.

ON WRITING

Requirements

All written assignments must be turned in on paper (i.e., not electronically) at the beginning of the class on which they are due, unless indicated otherwise. If there is a legitimate reason why you must turn something in late, you should contact me at least 24 hours before the due date to explain the problem and make other arrangements (just as you would for a job). I cannot promise detailed comments and editing for any work turned in late.

All written assignments should begin with your name and the date. Please also make sure that assignments are double spaced, with 12-pt. font, 1-inch margins on all sides, and include the page number and your name on each page. For guidance on generally accepted rules of writing, style, and proper academic citation, see the following style guides. I prefer Chicago's style, but you may use any style as long as you follow it consistently and rigorously.

Chicago Manual of Style (available online through the library):

Help with Writing

Please take advantage of the following resources.

AU Writing Center

Bender Library First Floor; 885-2991 for appointments

<http://www.american.edu/cas/writing/index.cfm>

The Writing Center First floor of Bender Library offers free, individual coaching sessions to all AU students. In your 45-minute session, a student writing consultant can help you address your assignments, understand the conventions of academic writing, and learn how to revise and edit your own work. Hours: 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday. Call 202-885-2991 to arrange a session. Meanwhile find handouts, information, and a weekly writer's blog at the Writing Center website and on Facebook.

AU Academic Support Center Writing Lab

MGC 243 <http://www.american.edu/ocl/asac/Writing-Lab-About-Us.cfm>

The Writing Center and the Writing Lab are two separate offices providing similar services to all AU students. The Writing Center is located in the American University library and the Writing Lab is located at the ASAC in Mary Graydon Center 243. If there are no appointments available in one location, please try the other. For appointments: <https://american.mywconline.com>

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS FOR ACADEMIC READING

In my opinion, detailed note taking and underlining or highlighting are essential to reading academic texts. Another useful way to ensure that you read carefully and are well prepared for class (and for academia generally) is to answer most or all of the following questions for each assigned text. I strongly suggest writing out the answers and any other thoughts inspired by a reading. These notes will later help you write papers, prepare for exams, and employ your readings in future classes and in other academic work.

Suggested Questions to Ask of Each Reading

- 1) What is(are) the main argument(s) or thesis(es) of the work? What was the author's goal or aim in writing? What was the author trying to accomplish?
- 2) What evidence does the author provide to support the main argument? What research methods did the author employ to collect evidence? What key authors or theories does the author build upon, advance, and/or critique?
- 3) Are you convinced by the author's argument? Why or why not? How is the text helpful? What, if anything, is missing from the analysis, discussion, or the presentation of data? How is the text weak or problematic? How could it be strengthened or improved (perhaps linked to the work of others)? Don't just critique! Think critically about how an analysis can be usefully improved and built upon.
- 4) What is the significance of the text—both for academic thought and the larger world? How might it help us understand related issues and phenomena?
- 5) What questions does the reading raise for you? What other thoughts, ideas, or inspiration? What parallels do you draw with other ideas or writing? Where does the work take your mind? Write down any notes, thoughts, and even glimmers of ideas, no matter where they might take you. They will likely be helpful later.

And keep the notes! They will be incredibly helpful for future papers, other classes, comprehensive exams, dissertations and theses, and teaching (I still use my notes from college). Many also find that maintaining an organized bibliography using Zotero, Endnote, or another computer software program greatly assists future research and writing.

LEARNING AND LIFE RESOURCES

If you encounter any difficulty this semester for any reason that affects your participation in the course, please don't hesitate to speak with me. In addition to the department's assistance, the university offers a variety of learning and life resources. See:

<https://my.american.edu/content.cfm?load=includes/help.cfm> or the following:

Academic Support and Access Center: MGC 243, 202-885-3360, www.american.edu/ocl/asc
Supports the academic development and educational goals of all AU students while also providing support to students with disabilities. We offer workshops on topics of interest to all students such as time management, note taking, critical thinking, memory skills, and test taking. Additional support includes free private and group tutoring in many subjects, supplemental instruction, The Math Lab and The Writing Lab.

Counseling Center: MGC 214, 202-885-3500, www.american.edu/ocl/counseling
Here to help students make the most of their university experience, both personally and academically. We offer individual and group counseling, urgent care, self-help resources, referrals to private care, as well as programming to help you gain the skills and insight needed to overcome adversity and thrive while you are in college. Contact the Counseling Center to make and appointment in person or by telephone, or visit the Counseling Center page on the AU website for additional information.

Disability Support Services: 885-3315 (V/TDD), MGC 206, www.american.edu/ocl/dss.
If you qualify for accommodations because of a disability, please notify me in a timely manner with a letter from the Academic Support Center or Disability Support Services so that we can address your needs.

Center for Diversity & Inclusion: MGC 201, 202-885-3651, <http://www.american.edu/ocl/cdi/index.cfm>
Dedicated to enhancing LGBTQ, Multicultural, First Generation, and Women's experiences on campus and to advance AU's commitment to respecting & valuing diversity by serving as a resource and liaison to students, staff, and faculty on issues of equity through education, outreach, and advocacy.

International Student & Scholar Services: Battelle 4th Floor Butler Pavilion, Room 410, 202-885-3340/3350, www.american.edu/ocl/iss
Resources to support academic success and participation in campus life including academic counseling, support for second language learners, response to questions about visas, immigration status and employment and intercultural programs, clubs and other campus resources.

Judicial Affairs and Mediation Services: 885-3328, Butler 408, www.american.edu/ocl/jams.

Multicultural Affairs: 885-3651, MGC 204, www.american.edu/ocl/oma.

New Student Programs: 885-3303/74, Butler 407, www.american.edu/ocl/orientation.

Student Health Center: 885-3380, McCabe Hall 1st Floor, www.american.edu/healthcenter.

Writing Support: See section of the syllabus above for more information.

OASIS: The Office of Advocacy Services for Interpersonal and Sexual Violence: 202-885-7070 provides free and confidential advocacy services for anyone in the campus community who experiences sexual assault, dating or domestic violence or stalking.

Non-discrimination Statement

American University expressly prohibits any form of discriminatory harassment including sexual harassment, dating and domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. The university is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution that operates in compliance with applicable laws and regulations, and does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex (including pregnancy), age, sexual orientation, disability, marital status, personal appearance, gender identity and expression, family responsibilities, political affiliation, source of income, veteran status, an individual's genetic information or any other bases under federal or local laws in its programs and activities.

If you experience any of the above, you have the option of filing a report with the AU Department of Public Safety (202-885-2527) or the Office of the Dean of Students 202-885-3300 dos@american.edu. Please keep in mind that all faculty and staff – with the exception of counselors in the Counseling Center, victim advocates in the Wellness Center, medical providers in the Student Health Center, and ordained clergy in the Kay Spiritual Life Center – who are aware of or witness this conduct are required to report this information to the university, regardless of the location of the incident.

EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS

In the event of a declared pandemic (influenza or other communicable disease), American University will implement a plan for meeting the needs of all members of the university community. Should the university be required to close for a period of time, we are committed to ensuring that all aspects of our educational programs will be delivered to our students. These may include altering and extending the duration of the traditional term schedule to complete essential instruction in the traditional format and/or use of distance instructional methods. Specific strategies will vary from class to class, depending on the format of the course and the timing of the emergency. Faculty will communicate class-specific information to students via AU e-mail and Blackboard, while students must inform their faculty immediately of any absence due to illness. Students are responsible for checking their AU e-mail regularly and keeping themselves informed of emergencies. In the event of a declared pandemic or other emergency, students should refer to the AU Web site (american.edu/emergency) and the AU information line at (202) 885-1100 for general university-wide information, as well as contact their faculty and/or respective dean's office for course and school/college-specific information.

FEEDBACK AND EVALUATION (WHICH UNFORTUNATELY INCLUDES GRADES)

I will provide what I hope to be constructive feedback and evaluation in written comments on your work and in one-on-one conversations. (I cannot promise detailed comments and editing for any work submitted after a deadline.) Although I wish all classes could be pass/fail, AU requires me to assign (simplistic and reductionist) letter grades. I will do so primarily based on participation, the quality of and energy devoted to assignments, and improvement over the course of the semester. I will also consider a formal self-assessment that you will complete to review your participation in the seminar and suggest your own grade. I will then assign grades using the point system and AU guidelines below. If you have worries, concerns, or questions about grading at any time, please come speak with me or ask me to discuss grading in class.

My Point System

Seminar participation: 20 pts.

Critical reactions: 10 pts. (Subtractions: missing more than 20%, insufficient effort)

Seminar facilitation: 5 pts. (Subtractions: insufficient effort)

Project proposal: 5 pts. (Subtractions: lateness; insufficient effort)

Preliminary bibliography: 5 pts. (Subtractions: lateness; insufficient effort)

Draft final paper outline: 5 pts. (Subtractions: lateness; insufficient effort)

Draft final paper, opinion piece abstract: 5 pts. (Subtractions: lateness; insufficient effort)

Final project presentation: 5 pts. (Subtractions: insufficient effort)

Final project paper: 30 pts.

Opinion piece: 10 pts.

Improvement and effort: 1-5 bonus pts.

AU's Guidelines

A: Superior, original, thoughtful work in completion of all course requirements;

B: Very good work in completion of course requirements;

C: Satisfactory work in completion of course requirements;

D: Unsatisfactory or incomplete work in course requirements and/or a failure to meet minimum attendance requirements;

F: Failure to meet minimum course standards for assignments, participation, attendance.<sup>4</sup>
